GREETINGS

from Indian River County, Florida

Indian River County is home to three vibrant and unique cities—Vero Beach, Sebastian, and Fellsmere—each offering its own special charm. Whether you're looking for a luxurious beach escape, a lively riverfront experience, or a peaceful retreat into nature, these cities have something for everyone. Let's explore what makes each one so special.

VERO BEACH:

Where the Tropics Begin

Vero Beach is a coastal gem with 26 miles of pristine shoreline, perfect for beach lovers. The absence of high-rise buildings allows the natural beauty of the area to shine through, creating a rare and refreshing coastal experience. The town blends luxury with local charm, featuring posh hotels, chic boutiques, and a vibrant dining scene inspired by the ocean's bounty. Art and culture thrive here, with world-class galleries, public sculptures, and high-end theatrical performances. Vero Beach is also deeply committed to heritage and sustainability, adding depth to this tropical paradise.

SEBASTIAN:

A Riverfront Paradise

Nestled between Vero Beach and Fellsmere, Sebastian is a lively riverfront town with a character all its own. The stunning Indian River Lagoon serves as a scenic backdrop, offering endless opportunities for water-based adventures. Sebastian is known for its vibrant community spirit, with famous festivals, local breweries, and neighborhood restaurants that foster a warm, friendly atmosphere. The town also offers plenty of outdoor activities, including skydiving, deep-sea fishing, and opportunities to spot endangered sea turtles. The historic Pelican Island National Wildlife Refuge, the first national refuge in the United States, adds a unique historical and natural element to this charming town.

FELLSMERE:

A Rural wonderland

Fellsmere, often considered the sister city to Vero Beach, offers a tranquil escape into rural Florida's natural beauty. This rural wonderland is characterized by undeveloped wildlands and thriving ecosystems, making it a haven for nature enthusiasts. Kayaking along the serene shores of Blue Cypress Lake reveals a flourishing osprey population, while the T.M. Goodwin Waterfowl Management Area attracts birders with its vast wetlands. Farm 13/Stick Marsh, a hidden gem known for legendary bass fishing, adds to the area's appeal. In Fellsmere, the unspoiled tropical paradise of old Florida comes to life.

Loggerhead and Green Sea Turtles, found year-round across Indian River County, are treasured natural resources that make our coastal town incredibly special.

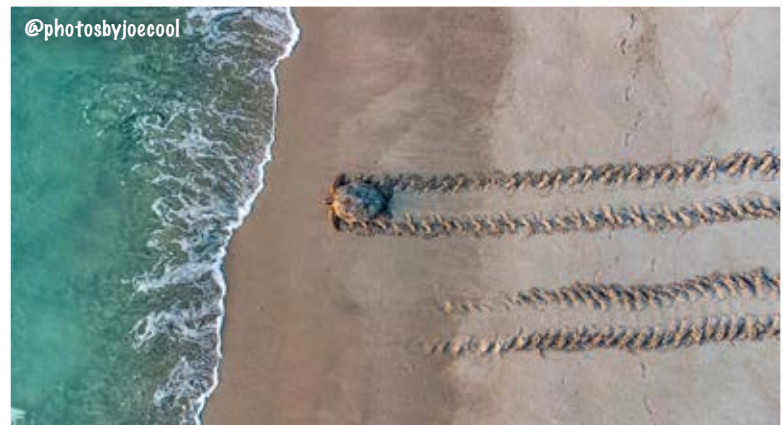

Every summer the nonprofit organization Coastal Connections hosts permitted nighttime Turtle Walks and daytime Turtle Digs that allow you to get up close to one of these fascinating living dinosaurs. During both of these events, you will learn more about the importance of sea turtles and their role in regulating and protecting the oceans and you will learn about ways you can help sea turtles survive, thrive, and recover from the endangered species list. To join one of these incredible experiences, check out their website or follow them on social media for event updates.
